

H&E tissue sections of the tumours. Tissue sections of the tumours were examined to any noticeable signs of abscess or inflammation. Tissues were collected at Day 17 and stained with H&E.

The control group showed poorly differentiated squamous carcinoma. Increased tumour necrosis and degenerative changes were observed in both individual treatment groups. However, tumour degeneration and necrosis were more pronounced and extensive in the dual treatment group.